• Government Using Google Earth To Loot Destitute Americans

- State utilizing aerial imaging technology to enforce petty ordinances and loot destitute citizens of whatever income they have left after having had trillions in wealth stolen and transferred to foreign banks

Paul Joseph Watson
Prison Planet.com

Aerial imaging technology is being used by the government to spy on Americans in an effort to collect revenue and enforce ordinances on swimming pools without safety certificates, junk cars being stored without permission, unlicensed porches, and a myriad of other petty transgressions that the state is feeding off in complete violation of the Fourth Amendment to suck citizens dry of whatever income they have left after being looted of trillions of dollars in wealth that the state has transferred to foreign banks.

The fact that technology such as Google Earth and Google Street View, which provides clear and often intrusive images of private property, is being used by authorities to spy on Americans without warrants is an obvious violation of the Fourth Amendment, which protects against unreasonable searches and seizures.

In Riverhead, New York, authorities used Google Earth to “help identify about 250 Riverhead homes where residents failed to get building permits certifying their swimming pools complied with safety regulations,” according to an Associated Press investigation.

The report lists a number of other uses state officials are utilizing the technology for, including checking if a homeowner has brush growing too close to his home, keeping junk cars on their lot in violation of ordinances, as well as finding illegal porches and decks that property owners have dared to build without the government’s permission.

Over in Greece, the government uses the technology to find undeclared swimming pools, so that they can then slap the owners with higher “wealth taxes”.

“Federal contracting records reviewed by Consumer Watchdog show that the FBI has spent more than $600,000 on Google Earth since 2007. The Drug Enforcement Administration, meanwhile, has spent more than $67,000,” states the report.

Despite the fact that the Associated Press article attempts to justify the use of the technology by claiming it aids in preventing drownings, fighting wildfires, and aiding emergency response to hurricanes and earthquakes, everyone quoted in the report slams the actions as a violation of privacy and the Fourth Amendment.

“I think it’s a great intrusion on people’s privacy; they should use it on the politicians' backyards," said Flanders resident Walter Casey.

"We live in an environment where we are told that if it's on camera, if you have a video record, that will make us safer," Lieberman said. "That may be appealing, but it is an unproven assertion. There's no evidence of that. Yet we see millions, if not billions, of post-9/11 money has gone to law enforcement for installing cameras in every conceivable nook and cranny," added the New York Civil Liberties Union's Donna Lieberman.

(ARTICLE CONTINUES BELOW)

Patently, the primary motivation behind using aerial imagery to spy on Americans has nothing to do with fighting crime. While every effort should be made to utilize such technology to secure America's borders from the virtual state of collapse that they are now undergoing, instead government is obsessed with shaking down already destitute Americans for having the temerity to avoid some petty regulation like not having a 4 foot fence around their swimming pool or daring to keep an old car in their backyard without the state's permission.

This is exclusively about feeding on the population and generating revenue to fill gaps in state budgets during an economic depression. It is completely unconstitutional and has no place in a free country.

Google, a company that was founded by CIA seed money and is nothing less than a front for the CIA, the NSA and the military-industrial complex, is already facing nine lawsuits in the United States alone and inquiries in 38 states for illegally collecting people's emails, web surfing history, and other information from private wi-fi networks during its Street View photographing operations. The company also faces criminal charges in countries like Germany, Spain and Australia for violating basic privacy laws.

Google is now working directly with the CIA to create a leviathan database of human activity that purports to be able to "predict the future" by scouring Twitter accounts, blogs and websites for real time information.

It's hardly surprising that the criminal, vampiric government is working with a company headed up by a CEO who thinks that privacy doesn't matter, and a company that has already broken innumerable privacy laws in its pursuit to achieve Big Brother super-status.

Recall this ultra-creepy Pennsylvania Department of Revenue commercial which received a massive backlash after it depicted authorities using sophisticated aerial imaging technology to locate people who supposedly owed the state back taxes. The voice-over ominously announces, "Because Tom, we do know who you are," as the shot zooms in on a crystal clear image of a house.

In reality of course, the biggest thieves and criminals are the government bureaucrats themselves, who have conspired to steal trillions of dollars from Americans that is being sent to offshore banks as citizens are forced to pick up the tab through higher taxes, soaring living costs, and crippling austerity measures.

The ad tells us everything we need to know about the motivation behind government using aerial imagery to spy on Americans – it's about oppression, intimidation, looting, and Big Brother on steroids – and goes way beyond anything even George Orwell warned about in his book 1984.

AZ WAS TURNED INTO THE KIDNAPPING CAPITOL OF THE WORLD WITH EXTORTION MONEY GOING TO MEXICO — WOULD LIKE TO RESOURCES USED FOR SOMETHING BESIDES POOL VIOLATORS .... I think the article is referring to Americans that may now be upside down in their home loans, unable to pay AND now the feds are going in for fines that they OBVIOUSLY can't afford.

Right or wrong.....the 'seemingly' wealthy with dodgy and/or unpermitted swimming pools polarizes the brain-damaged, right...they think...Well, those Rich people shouldn't have a problem paying the fine, eff them if they can afford to put in a below ground pool anyway!"

Yet, this sort of privacy intrusion DOES set a precedent which then enables the bottom-feeding scum to come after the Truly poor...for maybe 2 foot high grass at the home of an elderly woman taking care of her dying husband, who had always done the yard chores.....or you watered your lawn on Wednesday instead of Tuesday...$1,000 Fine...we have it on Google earth video....it's All incremental and with intent to desensitize Before they go in for the Big Brother kill....just sayin'! 😊

Hey, I've been complaining for TWENTY YEARS, about my "poor" county, spending $5 million USD/year, on a rented Huey, to "spy" on people. I mean, "look for illegal pot plants".

WTF about the FOURTH AMENDMANT????? Why, am I NOT "secure in my person, property, and papers"?????

I don't care, who has a pool- permitted, or not!! As long as THEY paid for it, it is NOT the FEDGOV or local demon's , business! I refuse, to "ask permission", to build ANYTHING, on MY property!

I'm waiting for just once...just once where someone got sick and tired of the government and decided to take of the few bastards out. These bastards go and bomb other defenseless countries and kill millions, but if some government officials were to take some lead they would scream martial law.

The one thing they don't want is nice Americans to give up and start attacking. They need 99% of the sheeple to be satisfied with the government bulls---. So that's why we would never be able to really make change, because 99% of the people won't do s---

If the government is the owner of your house and you paying rent (AKA property taxes) then they, as owners, can know all about THEIR property all they want at any time or all the time and you have no privacy right.

And they can evict you at any time and for any reason through eminent domain, or by enforcing some lien and seizing it.

Ah America... no pay no play.

You don't own a house... government allows you to live their... imagine buying a house pre-crisis and having government seize it with an "fair" price for it today...

I always thought George Washington fought for a country you could retire in, and therefore not worry about getting your house seized because of some old tax bill... but whatever!

You do know that governments in the U.S. have tons of money right?

I would revolt, but I'd rather sit around on my fat ass and post comments on Prison Planet. It's almost football season and I can't wait for all the beer, nachos, wings and fart jokes my moronic friends and I partake in all weekend. If they want my house, they can come get it. After all it's only worth half of what I paid for it. And if everyone is homeless, the last thing we have to worry about is death and taxes.

Frankly, I don't see a problem. If there's a law that says that citizens can't keep junk cars in the yard, and the government is overseeing this law using technology, there's nothing wrong with that. Without the technology, they might as well send a surveyor. If you think that the law is unfair, then fight the law using your democratic powers – lobby the city, run for city board, and so on; having the law but hoping that nobody notices that you have violated it, is plain silly. And if you want the government work on issues that are important to you, then elect another government.

With all the dissent and outrage on these boards, I'm very curious, just who were those dozens of millions of people who reelected JWB on the 2nd term. Must have been some aliens from outer space. The same aliens who soon will be again choosing between the two puppets basing on who has raised more money from the corporate America.

GOOGLE EARTH NOT NEEDED.

Dumb ass wacko liberals tell on each other as a result of the wacko environmentalism brainwashing they have absorbed through thought control and conditioning commercials. The television shows geared toward the stagnant brain like Lady Gaga and Green this and Green that constantly drummed into the sheople.

But there is an exception for that caveman neighbor who insists on burning his meat over a grill nightly causing stomach cancer for his family. He should be waterboarded. Why should he be allowed to eat what he wants just a few years before WWII when he will never see meat again even if he lives though it.

Theft without consequences but in the alternative grand reward will prevail virtually every time.

Vote them out? Most don't get it. They get their full pension after one term and cut business deals while within to last a lifetime.

The issue is not voting them out after the horses have left the barn. What is at issue is seeing how the public is sound-bite conditioned to vote them in in the first place. Sound bite ads run to create that warm fuzzy feeling or blind reactionary acceptance towards the buzz promotion of the day being masterfully presented within an entertainment society. In doing so this does the trick almost every time. The unscrupulous use that tactic well and capture the majority of the votes with this tactic applied..

As we were entertained over the decades US federal and local Government are now bigger in scope and size within their collective totals for ultimate control and wealth accumulation then Russia ever dreamed possible under communisms. From within this structure fortunes are made for the cooperative players and the opposition is destroyed either buy innuendo or outright attack for elimination due to the coveting of the massive money involved.

We are faced with foxes guarding and writing the rules on how many hens will be taken and eaten from the hen house and the results therewith are evidently clear to any discerning eye.

What is the definition of insanity? ANS: Doing the same thing over and over again expecting different results.

There is no voting them in or out, there is only shutting them down for reorganization and reinstatement under new rules governing their operations to be "strictly constitutional". That in itself will nullify and cut out 90% of the crap in place today. I wonder who can get that question on the ballot? I think we all know what the outcome of that vote would be if presented to the people... And in that light the discussions per this issue should build into a roar where the intent of the governed is clearly; definitively; and forcefully heard for implementation of the above into rigged policy, overseen by public scrutiny for strict compliance.
