

What are Human Rights? Do They Include Property & Class?

Posted on January 2, 2016 by Martin Armstrong

The real definition of a human right is a right that is believed to belong justifiably to every person. The United Nations defines Human Rights as:

Human rights are rights inherent to all human beings, whatever our nationality, place of residence, sex, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, language, or any other status. We are all equally entitled to our human rights without discrimination. These rights are all interrelated, interdependent and indivisible.

The question is simply this: why is discriminating against class acceptable, as advocated by Karl Marx, which has become fundamental in politics as with Hillary in the States or Hollande in Europe? Those of us who are producers are looked down upon by the state as a possession as in Ayn Rand's "Atlas Shrugged". The G20 is on a witch hunt to track down every person to find where they have any money stashed. This greed of politicians to fund their mismanagement of the state violates our HUMAN RIGHTS.

We are economic slaves who are unable to be free because we cannot live in peace. We are not always free to resign our nationality and the United States claims that human rights include "nationality, place of residence, sex, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, language, or any other status." Class is a status.

What the G20 has agreed to violates the Universal Declaration of Human Rights supported by all countries. Article 2 states:

Everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth in this Declaration, without distinction of any kind, such as race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, birth or other status. Furthermore, no distinction shall be made on the basis of the political, jurisdictional or international status of the country or territory to which a person belongs, whether it be independent, trust, non-self-governing or under any other limitation of sovereignty.

Discrimination against class because someone earns more than another violates human rights. Nevertheless, governments impose a progressive tax system which has produced FATCA and will destroy the entire world economy by 2017 for international investment will no longer be available to people on an individual basis. The global economy will be handed purely to multinational companies, be they corporations or investment funds of some nature.

Government have waged total war against wealth creation. Indeed, 2017 will be the year from hell.

This entry was posted in Basic Concepts and tagged 2017, Atlas Shrugged, Class Discrimination, G20, Human Rights by Martin Armstrong. Bookmark the permalink.