Sustainable Development is Reordering America

Chapter 1 Sustainable Development is Reordering America

America and the world are being reordered.
On the world scene, America pursues a “preemptive” foreign policy with bloody results.

Within America, town and county reordering is largely bloodless.

Sustainable Development

American schools largely ignore the foundational basis of freedom – the recognition of an individual’s unalienable rights. Financial interests in America are being lost in the increasingly inevitable collapse of America’s funny money system. Politicians think America is a democracy and that they direct our course.

Uneasiness is rising in mainstream America.
People know that something is wrong – and that it is getting worse. What do we do?

The first step is to understand the scheme behind the reordering of America.

The initial step in understanding this scheme is to recognize the goals of globalist philosophy’s attacks on unalienable rights. They are:

1. Abolish private property,
2. Base world governance on public decree; not individual rights,
3. Reduce human population.

They wish to overrule the concept that life, liberty and property form the cornerstone of the American experience. America’s Declaration of Independence established that government exists to protect each individual’s unalienable right to his life, liberty and property.

Sustainable Development is Reordering America

We are on the threshold of mankind's greatest defeat. Our liberty is being lost under pressure of national and global crisis. This is occurring under the banner of Sustainable Development policy. If we lose this battle, liberty will be lost and the human experience will become dark – for a very long time. As liberty fades, technology will be the agent of an elite's subjugation of humanity.

Let's explore Sustainable Development philosophy and policy

The Sustainable Development philosophy is designed to bring human beings across the globe under the control of human elite. Sustainable Developers designed a global movement to be coordinated through a global-to-local action plan. Their goal is to create world governance in accordance with specific objectives.

These objectives include:

- An end to national sovereignty,
- Abolishing private property,
- Restructuring the family unit,
- Increased limits and restrictions on mobility,

Sustainable Development

- Increased limits and restrictions on individual opportunity.

The methods employed to achieve these objectives are being funded by the federal government. The objectives are being achieved via a thousand points of darkness including:

- U.S. monetary policy,
- Tax policy,
- Water policy,
- Environmental policy,
- War policy,
- Education policy,
- Foreign policy.

The focus of Sustainable Development is to abolish private property, push societal undermining of the family and abandon Constitutional protection of unalienable rights.

In America, the globalist Sustainable Development movement is comprised of:

Sustainable Development is Reordering America

- The Democrat party leadership,
- The Republican party leadership,
- Communist anarchists,
- Libertarian anarchists,
- Greens,
- Public/private partnerships including many multinational corporations,
- Socialists,
- Neo Conservatives,
- Capitalists,
- “Third Way” Fabians,
- Something for everyone!

Consensus among the political types has been declared! Ordinary Americans will pay the price – the price is a loss of their liberty.

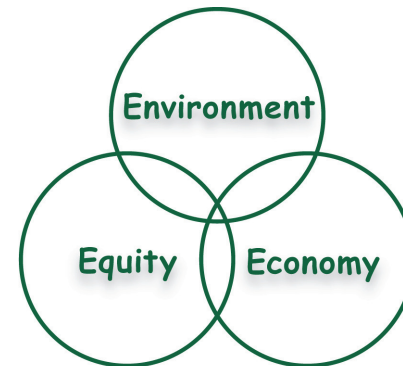

Seeing the big picture

The Sustainable globalists’ goal is to orchestrate a fall of America’s principles, values and lifestyle. The effect on the average American will be devastating. With modern technology the ordinary person will live without independence, privacy or substantive rights.

Sustainable Development

The “Three E” symbol is frequently used by Sustainable Development advocates. The three E’s of Sustainable Development are Equity, Economy and Environment.

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Equity, the first “E,” means to restructure human nature. Like Communism, it is a system of “social justice” that works to abolish the American concept of equal justice in order to pursue the globalist ideal of “common good.” Pursuit of a centrally determined “common good” ultimately requires a police state to suppress individual freedoms.

Economy, the second “E,” relies on Fabian socialist economics. This, like Italian Fascism, relies on business that wants the protection of government's legal force and government that wants the power of business. This is called "Public/Private Partnership" today. Sustainable Development redefines free trade to mean centralized global trade "freely" crossing national borders. This affects an international redistribution of American financial and natural resources. United Nations accredited Non-Governmental Organizations and other "non-profits" are used as bridges to transform the American economy system. They destroy free enterprise and abolish private property step by step.

Sustainable Development is Reordering America

Environment, the third "E," is not really about "saving" nature. Rather it is about a revolutionary coup in America. It is to establish global governance and abandon the principles of Natural Law. Sustainable Developers are committed to the abolishment of private property and destruction of individual liberty, equal justice and limited government. Sustainable Development uses a link-by-link approach to:

- Subvert the principles of the Declaration of Independence,
- Destroy the governing authority of the United States Constitution,

Sustainable Development

- Turn America – indeed any sovereign nation – into a globally governed "homeland" where human beings are treated as biological resources subject to "human rights."

The politically based environmental movement camouflages Sustainable Developers in their work to transform the American systems of justice, economics and government.

Understanding the Trans-Texas Corridor

Chapter 2 Understanding the Trans-Texas Corridor in Context: Globalism, “Free Trade” and the “Sustainable Economy”

We first need to understand Public/Private Partnerships. This trend is growing in big, medium and small business. Public/Private Partnerships are a marriage between business and government. The Economy “E” of Sustainable Development creates Public/Private Partnerships. This brings business wanting the government’s legal force protection together with government agents wanting business’s economic power.

The Trans-Texas Corridor is a Public/Private Partnership (PPP) between the state of Texas and Cintra, a Spanish corporation. The consequences of creating this PPP include an economic, and perhaps a military, Trojan horse. It will open borders and give an open landing in America. This colossal road will infuse political and economic Sustainable Globalism into and throughout America.

Sustainable Development

Are Americans ready to throw their fate to the wind?

The Trans-Texas Corridor is the literal pathway to economic equalization of nations. To meet the Economy “E” global economic equalization objectives, the system requires global management of trade. Global trade management requires bringing down American production and middle class standards of living. American economic submission and political regionalization is designed to lead to a borderless world. The Trans-Texas Corridor fits this design as a step toward world governance.

Understanding the Trans-Texas Corridor

These facts lead me to ask:

- Is Sustainable Development's free trade policy, coupled with fiat money, building America's conquering enemy?
- If so, would that enemy be global collectivism or a militarized China or both?

Are we entering a time of perpetual and global war to establish global control and "world peace" as George Orwell forecasted?

This "world peace" would depend on perpetual, uniform and universal compliance to the new world system.

Is Sustainable policy a major step toward that end?

You need to decide what you think.

Sustainable Development

Chapter 3
Citizens Need to Find One or More Circumstances to Facilitate Linking the Globalist Dots Operating in America Today

Here are examples of ideas to help you connect the dots:

Funny money

U.S. Federal Reserve notes are funny money with no real backing. These notes are simply decreed, printed and therefore “fiat.” Throughout history fiat money has always ended in failure. Consider the following:

1. How long before the Federal Reserve or a successor issues new American currency?
2. What would destruction of today’s fiat dollar bring to ordinary people?
3. Would it lead to repressive and controlling changes in our form of government?

To analyze Sustainable methodology you need to understand our monetary system and how it perpetuates a globalist control system. Aaron Russo’s “America: Freedom to Fascism” explains our globalist, unconstitutional money system. To get your copy, visit www.freedomadvocates.org. Then spread the word!

Abolish private property

To further your understanding you need to recognize the efforts to abolish private property. Sustainable Developers are changing the American economic system from free enterprise to Public/Private Partnership. In a free society, understanding the role of private property is the key to a successful defense of individual liberty. George Washington said it succinctly: “Private property and freedom are inseparable.”

Communitarian Law

To understand the big picture, you need to recognize the advance of so-called Communitarian Law. This is moving us from equal justice to a system of “social justice.” American law is being transformed to meet the “equity” requirements of Sustainable Development. Original American law was written to protect the individual. The evolving Communitarian principles protect the interests of “society” as discerned by a manipulative elite power base and their field agents.

Educational indoctrination

Many will understand the globalist takeover in America when they realize the level of educational indoctrination in our government schools. For several years I have asserted that California has made “the environment” central to the teaching of all school subjects through legislation. In May 2007, the Santa Cruz County Office of Education announced it plans to include environmental agenda in ALL subject areas in ALL grades. A similar program is being introduced in 19 other California counties.

It is important that mom and dad find out just what is happening in their schools.

The Federal Department of Education has proclaimed 2006 to 2015 as the “Decade of Sustainable Development Education.”

This puts responsibility for our children’s educational growth in dangerous hands. You need to take appropriate action to protect your children and lead others to an understanding of this issue.

What is Private Property?

By Michael Shaw

LibertyGarden.com

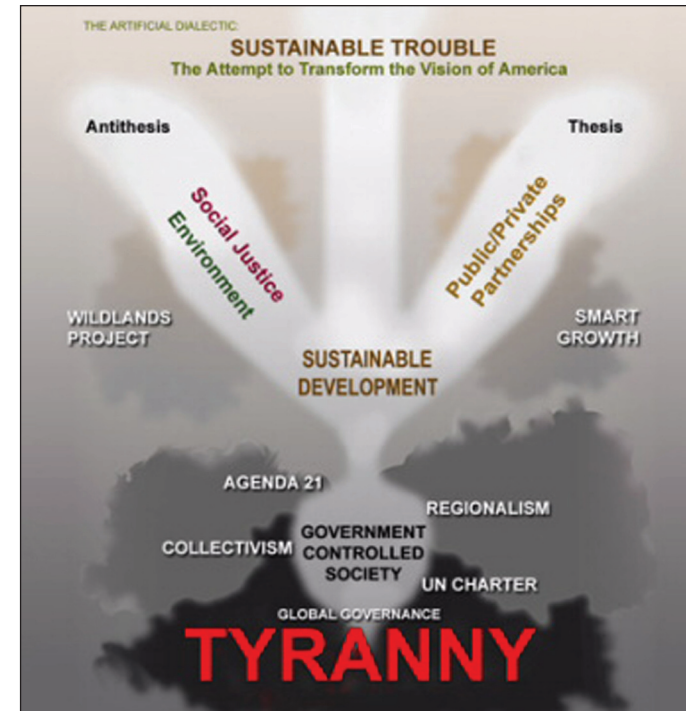

And Why Private Property is Necessary to Maintain a Moral Society

Chapter 4
America's Central Problem Comes from
Spectrum

An artificial Dialectic is a contrived or man-made process that poses seemingly opposite objectives. The intent is to create a predetermined outcome. This is a form of psychological manipulation that identifies a "thesis" and corresponding "antithesis." In an artificial Dialectic the thesis and the antithesis are chosen and pursued to achieve a predetermined "synthesis" – the real objective of the sponsors.

The challenge for these manipulators is to bracket the public's "choice" between contrasting alternatives. Each alternative is predicated on legal positivism. Under a legal positivist régime the "rights" of man are granted and revoked. For example, there is no difference between human rights and animal rights.

The artificial Dialectic right wing "thesis" is formed by people and organizations who advocate combining the force of government with the power of business, or Public/Private Partnerships.

The artificial Dialectic left wing populist "antithesis" is designed to rally groups of people around the concept of social justice. Social justice is: Using the law to engineer society. The objective of Sustainable Development is to end the era of equal justice.

America's Problem is Manipulation of Left/Right

You say, "Not possible. Americans would never accept a silent tyranny's revolution!" Consider these questions:

- Will Americans accept an old game wrapped in a new cover?
- Will Americans accept an evolving Fabian system of central, controlled and managed economics that abolishes private property and free enterprise using an authoritarian justice system; if it was wrapped in a "new" central organizing principle?

This is the purpose of the environmental movement.

Sustainable Environmentalism attempts to put nature before ordinary man. This subordinates man's property, liberty and life to elitist manipulation made in the name of the environment! It is essential that you recognize the central purpose behind today's environmental scares. This is the artificial Dialectic behind Sustainable troubles. Artificial Dialectic is fueled by Environmental scares.

The phony "battle" between right and left is moving society downward, step-by-step, toward the transformation of America.

Sustainable Development

Sustainable Development is the synthesis of the artificial Dialectic. The purpose of Sustainable Development is to create a government controlled society.

Chapter 5
Sustainable Development:
Examining a Real Life Example

In 1985 my wife and I purchased a 75 acre parcel overlooking the Pacific Ocean on the urban edge of Santa Cruz County. Santa Cruz is a small county lined on the west with expansive sun drenched beaches and on the east and north with a rich redwood forested mountain. The southern portion of the county is very fertile farmland.

The land we bought is west of Highway 1. It consists of two small north/south ocean view hills and a valley with a seasonal stream flowing through the middle. When we bought the property, half the land was in pasture grass, the other half in coast oaks. The oaks were impenetrable as they were covered with walls of poison oak as high as 40 feet tall. When we stopped grazing, the grasslands filled with thistles and burrs requiring plastic pants to pass through.

Immediately following the purchase, I embarked on two programs:

1. A four lot subdivision. The land was and is zoned for up to 30 homes.
2. A plant management program best described as seed bank management.

The results:

1. I got stuck in planning hell. After 2½ years we received a questionable denial of any economic use.
2. Our plant management program resulted in the growth of over 150 species of California native plants. These plant species were recovered from dormant long-lived seed banks buried in the soil. For over 20 years a crew has often worked 6 days a week to achieve this advanced ecological breakthrough.

Sustainable Development: A Real Life Example

In 2002 the achievement was featured on the cover of the international science journal, “Ecological Restoration,” published by the University of Wisconsin arboretum in Madison, Wisconsin.

We call this landscape Liberty Garden. It is unique and wonderful. But we still have not been able to establish our residence there. This condition has led to litigation. The local court eliminated all damage claims resulting from the 20 year delay claiming the land to be “recreational.” The decision now awaits appellate court review.

During the 90’s, I sat on the Santa Cruz Resource Conservation District Board of Directors. In that capacity, I was lured into the “Local Agenda 21” council where I attended bizarre meetings:

Sustainable Development

- Mother Earth was not to be “scratched,”
- Trees were not to be cut,
- Children were to learn a new living ethic,
- Human living was to conform to Smart Growth mandates.

I could not relate, and dismissed the program as nonsense.

Several years later, the County Board of Supervisors quietly adopted the Local Agenda 21 as its policy guide to the implementation of Sustainable Development. That is when we got busy and formed, what is now called, Freedom Advocates.

Most forest owners in Santa Cruz cannot cut a tree. The California Supreme Court recently ruled in the County government’s favor.

Farmers in the County’s fertile Pajaro Valley are being taxed increasing amounts to draw water from their own wells. The state appeals court recently overruled a county court and invalidated the tax. The California Supreme Court did not accept the case for review.

Sustainable Development: A Real Life Example

A land war over the idea of private property is in progress.

Sustainable Development

Chapter 6
Grow a Basis for Optimism

I'm laying out a disturbing scenario. How do we grow a basis for optimism?

Recognize reality

We can't fight what we do not understand. To fight locally without understanding the big picture, we will be overwhelmed with the depth of alternative programs designed to secure the globalist objective. When we understand the Sustainable Development objectives, we can formulate effective responses to establish or protect freedom and genuine peace.

Organize locally

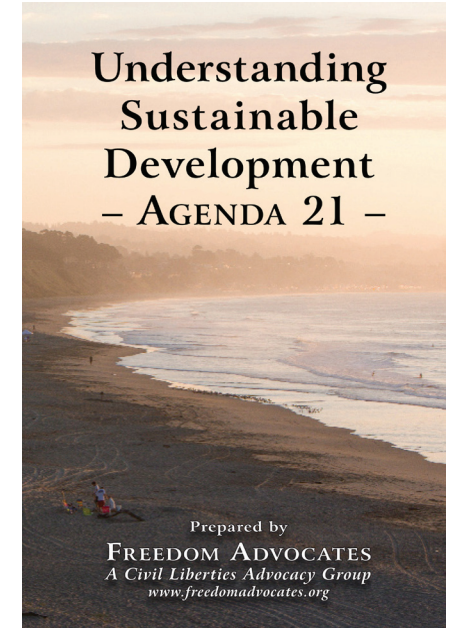

Understand global-to-local connections and sustainability patterns. Then fight when purposeful and inform others at every opportunity.

Stop the Trans-Texas Corridor

Gary Lawrence, a chief planner for the city of Seattle, was an advisor to President Clinton's Council on Sustainable Development. He was also a delegate to the 1998 UNEP conference in the U.K. There he said:

"Participating in a U.N. advocated process would likely bring out many who would actively work to defeat any local official undertaking Local Agenda 21 – Sustainable Development. So we call our process something else such as "comprehensive planning," "growth management," or "smart growth."

Texans can and have fought back by thinking local and becoming vocal. Citizen action to thwart the Trans-Texas Corridor is essential if we are to preserve our national boundary, protect individual liberty and free enterprise. Think about becoming a "big issue leader." But realize that if you win this battle, the next one will intensify. Recognize globalist-to-local policy in your town or county.

Central California is a globalist action haven.
Examples are:

- Schwarzenegger's global warming scam,
- The statewide affordable housing and Smart Growth scams,
- The train proposals and bicycle path development around the bay area,
- The creation of "Wildland zones" which destroy private property – a prime example is Alameda's Measure D
- The loss of timbering rights of Santa Cruz mountain property owners,
- The attempt to take the ground water from Pajaro Valley farmers.

Private property is being abolished as unalienable rights are being trashed. We must act in advance of a total collapse. So while you fight in the trenches, work underneath the transformational fury. Educate and cause your neighbors, family and townspeople to gain a growing understanding of Sustainable Development.

Chapter 7
Components of the
Sustainable Development Ideology - Part 1

Attack on private property

Many people either haven't learned or have forgotten what private property is. To make a quick, clear analysis:

- The character of private property is un-subsidized productive effort – and voluntary trade – “un-managed” by globalist political economics,
- The ideals of private property protect the freedom to think and the freedom to express,
- The ideals of private property require that the culture adheres to principles that guarantee to each of us freedom of action – limited by respect for the property of others.

Voluntary trade creates a spontaneous order, causes mutual benefits and societal gains. This is not a difficult idea to understand. But few of our children receive this message.

The essence of private property lies in the owner's determination of use. Private property is not a thing: It is the relationship between a person and a thing. The essence of this relationship is the owner's right to determine the property's use.

The foundations of your rights and pursuit of happiness are:

- To be who you are,
- To own your own self and the product of your energy,
- To possess authority and the responsibility for your actions.

A society that promotes happiness promotes genuine peace and prosperity. Such a society pursues the ideals and the institutions of individual liberty and its corollary, private property.

Today's politicians and insiders are transforming America. We are being changed from a nation rooted in private property to one based on a different system of economics. Following are a few illustrations demonstrating this transformation:

Eminent domain

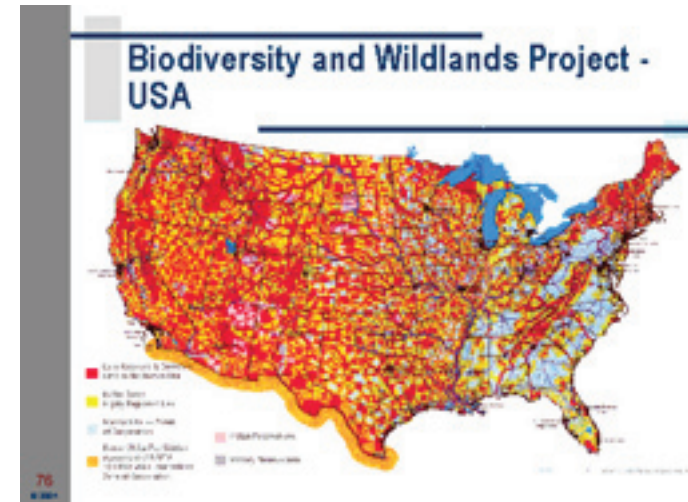

Americans have lost federal protection of the unalienable right to the use and enjoyment of private property. The U.S. Supreme Court's 2006 decision in Kelo greatly expanded the use of a government takings power by eliminating the public use requirement of the Fifth Amendment. This decision allows an increasing proliferation of Public/Private Partnerships.

Globalists and their Sustainable Developers needed Kelo in order to destroy the constitutional protection of private property. The court's majority betrayed the American ideal. In doing this they opened the door for the Trans-Texas Corridor and Smart Growth programs. Remember George Washington's truth about the connection between private property and freedom ... "private property and freedom are inseparable." Know this: The fight over the Trans-Texas Corridor and Smart Growth is local! We all become united by advancing Local Action for National Impact!

Action plans

Another method to gain a big picture perspective of the economic revolution in this country is to understand Sustainable Development's land use Action Plans; Smart Growth and the Wildlands Project.

Understand the following map and you will never see your local newspaper in the same light. This is because American corporate news' interests do not inform us of the conditions that transform the American economic model:

The red areas are Wildland zones. These areas are to be void of human presence. No exaction of resources will be allowed.

The yellow areas are buffer zones. These "protect" Wildland areas. Only limited and controlled actions undertaken by public/private partners are allowed.

The black dots are Smart Growth zones. These areas are designed to assure that wildlife can roam freely while human beings are locked into very narrow living areas.

Components of Sustainable Development Ideology - 1

between aquifers via surface pipes. This represents big business opportunities for the Sustainable Development “partners!” The argument behind “conjunctive use” is that if one aquifer is fed water from a different aquifer the resulting “mixed” water is no longer a property right that attaches to the overlying land; therefore, the property right to water is “lost.”

Water becomes fully collectivized under conjunctive use rules. If Sustainable Developers win this battle, Smart Growth policy will easily achieve its objective as rural residents relocate to get water. Then we will all live by fascist/communist “global-to-local” laws. Smart Growth living is being established for these purposes:

- Control the water,
- Abolish private property,
- Then control the people.

The Sierra Club controls water districts throughout the West. As a “Non-Governmental Organization” the Sierra Club is accredited by the U.N. for the purpose of implementing Sustainable Development policy. The Sierra Club’s primary action plan is to gain control over Water Districts. The purpose is to assure that individual water rights are lost and water becomes collectivized.

Sustainable Development

Water and its availability determine where we live, how we live, what we eat and even if we live. The World Bank water policy calls for limiting use to 10 gallons a day per person and for the construction of continental water delivery systems. The average American uses 140 gallons a day.

Defend private property interests in water!
Save your freedom – protect yourself from globalist water policy.

Globalist “Free Trade” policy

Another method to gain perspective of the economic revolution in America is to understand the purpose and effect of globalist trade policy. The World Trade Organization (WTO) labels globalist policy “free trade.” They want to manage trade to benefit multinationals and world governance advocates. The U.S. government participates in, finances and leads the WTO. They do this to impose globalist Public/Private Partnership economics on U.S. citizens and most of the world. An example of doing business this way is the Texas state partnership with Cintra, a Spanish corporation. It was created to construct and manage the Trans-Texas Corridor highway that will extend across the continent.

Globally managed economic policy destroys national sovereignty. Once globalist “free trade” is fully secured, time will bring world governance with unlimited power over individuals. Consider the continental trade policy that undermined the European nations’ sovereignty leading to the formal loss of political independence via the creation of the European Union.

The Trans-Texas Corridor is a big step forward on the road to a North American Union (NAU). The NAU concept is incompatible with the principles of the Declaration of Independence. Continental “Unions” are the pathway that leads to world governance.

Public/Private Partnership

Another method for understanding the American economics transformation is to understand Public/Private Partnership economics. Public/Private Partnership economics is planned as the new global system of economics. It can only take effect by eliminating private property. This is the reason behind increasing attacks on farmland and ranches across America. The essence of Smart Growth policy is to eliminate private property: that is when an owner determines the use of his or her property.

Don’t be confused by terminology. Benito Mussolini united government and business to a common mission. In the twentieth century, economics predicated on partnership between government and business was labeled “Fascist” economics. Ideas do not change. What changed is the economic system being orchestrated for Americans.

American economics is becoming transformed: from an economy based on private property to one based on Public/Private Partnerships. Texas and America are being transformed from a free enterprise to a fascist economic system!

These are all components of the planned transformation of American systems of justice, economics and governance.

Sustainable Development

Chapter 8
Components of the
Sustainable Development Ideology - Part 2

Educational transformation

The second major component of Sustainable Development is to establish an educational system designed to indoctrinate youth for global governance. It is preparing the next generation for a “new” world.

No Child Left Behind

Bush and Kennedy drew on an artificial consensus to advance the left/right globalist takeover of every child’s education.

A series of globalist education policies have been adopted by Congress over several decades. The most recent is No Child Left Behind. Note the timing of Bush policy priorities. An early first term Bush priority was education legislation designed to prepare children to accept their role in the new globalist politicized society.

Remember the description of how all grades and all classes taught in Santa Cruz must advance teaching environmental movement priorities. This crucial, significant example of psychological manipulation has become a cause of public (and many private) education systems.

Are your children and grandchildren learning about the real meaning and significance of equal justice and free enterprise? Are they learning of the consequences of abandoning them?

Americans need a crash course in liberty and they need to take action before our youth are unrecoverable. We need this before human liberty is phased out and tyranny rules the earth for a very long time. Dr. George Riesman, author and professor of economics at Pepperdine University, warns of a new dark age if we do not recover the ideals of private property – soon.

Planting a new system of justice

The Precautionary Principle is being taught to prepare students for the transformation to world government and a new governing philosophy. Understand the Precautionary Principle:

- It holds that a person may not take action if that action may cause harm.
- Harm to what?
- The nebulously defined answer is “the environment.”

Components of Sustainable Development Ideology - 2

In Santa Cruz, the federal Department of Interior, working with local officials and business interests attempted to effect rules to prohibit many county landowners from walking on their property during the winter. This is to prevent the possibility of stepping on a long-toed salamander during its mating season!

Such “precautionary” practices are designed to shift legal presumptions in civil and criminal law to proving the negative. Imagine trying to prove that while walking on “your” land that you did not step on a salamander!

These changes in the law are designed to destroy private property principles and subjugate ordinary people to elitist control. The Los Angeles County School system teaches the Precautionary Principle including its totalitarian-inducing legal presumptions and burdens. Teachers and students around the country are being subjected to this philosophical siege. Our children and all of humanity will pay a heavy price if we do not reverse course – soon.

Population control

The third major component of Sustainable Development ideology is Population Control. The Sustainable Development movement is about:

Sustainable Development

- The Destruction of your Rights,
- Creating Crises, Shortages and a Police State.

Look at the environmental movement. Government has a legitimate role in preventing pollution of water, air and the property of another. But today’s environmental movement has moved far from that simple idea. Today, the environmental movement is the public front for the transformation of our systems. When this transformation is complete, my generation’s legacy will be cemented. We will have sealed posterity’s status as biological resources to serve the whims of a ruling elite. In California, many people think the environmental movement is about “saving Lake Tahoe!”

At its core, Sustainable Development’s goal is to reduce human population. David Foreman, an originator of the Wildlands Project, has called for a world population of 100,000 people. Jacques Cousteau said that 350,000 need to be “eliminated” every day for two decades to bring the world’s population into balance!

The U.N.’s Global Biodiversity Assessment was released at the same time Sustainable Development policies were unleashed. Section 11.2.3.2 pp 773, announced the following policies:

Components of Sustainable Development Ideology - 2

- “Population growth has exceeded the capacity of the biosphere.”
- “It is estimated that an “agricultural world,” in which most human beings are peasants, should be able to support 5 to 7 billion people.”
- “In contrast, a reasonable estimate for an industrialized world society at the present North American material standard of living would be 1 billion.”

Summarizing Goals of Sustainable Development

Chapter 9 Summarizing the Goals of Sustainable Development

Establishing a “New” system of economics and a “New” system of justice

These new systems discard the principles and purposes of the Declaration of Independence. The new systems prepare America for the destruction of the middle class and for our entry into world governance.

Establishing a world religion based on environmental principles

Many religious institutions jockey for a position of inclusion in the new world order. Many Christian denominations are willing to reinterpret and reapply biblical principles. The driving force of major religions is ecumenicalism for a universal spiritualism. Basic tenets of western spirituality include these ideas:

- That every individual is endowed with unalienable rights,
- Everyone is made in the image and likeness of God.

These ideas are being “reinvented.”

Sustainable Development

The genuine servants of God need to wake up to the real thrust of globalism before it is too late. The people need true spiritual leadership.

Reduced human population

The new systems have problems with the current population level:

- The new economic system will not support current lifestyles or population levels,
- The new justice system (so called equity) will not encourage human life,
- The environmental movement agenda will not allow adequate resource use to support current population levels.

World government

The “think globally, act locally” notion is rooted in August Comte’s philosophy of Positivism. Implementation is lead by Fabian Socialists, global banking interests, and international political and economic organizations. These include NGOs and many multinational corporations.

Sustainable Development

Chapter 10
Review of the Connections between:
Sustainable Development Policy,
the Trans-Texas Corridor, and the North American Union

Using Eminent Domain to build the highway to promote Public/Private Partnerships

The Trans-Texas Corridor was made possible by the Supreme Court's Kelo decision. This decision distorted the "public use" requirement of the Fifth Amendment prohibition against government's taking of private property. Texans needed the Fifth Amendment to protect the landowners along the corridor. All Americans need the Fifth Amendment to save us from this Trojan horse. Globalist Public/Private Partnerships have been unleashed on America!

Using the highway to promote Globalist
"Free Trade" policy

The globalist's political goal is a system of managed trade. It is not trade freely occurring between people. It is managed trade policy that combines multinational business interests with tyrannical governments. The result is flooding America with Trojan horses:

- The target is Liberty,
- The victim is the middle class,
- The motive is control.

Using the highway to harm American sovereignty and promote world government

When a national government relinquishes its power to control trade policy, it surrenders itself to outside power. Trade policy initiated the European Union just as it now ushers the way for a North American Union (NAU).

The NAU intends to harmonize North American law by creating a common political and economic philosophy with the United States, Mexico and Canada. This will not result in the protection of unalienable rights. The result is a philosophy leading towards world government. Is America growing weak of spirit? Or are we short on information?

Understand the threat and defend Liberty:
Take action – spread the word

Sustainable Development and Smart Growth are global collectivism. The goal is to abolish private property and end the American era of equal justice. These programs have made

Connecting Sustainable Development, Trans-Texas Corridor, and the North American Union

substantial advance at all levels of American government and business.

Drastically reducing human population is a tenet of Sustainable Development. To create a global-to-local connection, it operates locally. It creates political regions to eliminate political boundaries.

Sustainable Developers, as did their predecessors, cloud the issues while operating in the shadows. They design and promote plans that will subjugate humanity to a “new order.”

This evolving political/economic movement has moved at a turtle’s pace for over a century. Their leaders have long promised that the turtle will become a hare as the “change” takes place.

Is now that time?

Sustainable Development

Chapter 11

What Can You Do When Human Liberty is Under Great Threat?

Inform yourself and others

Cause freedom to become solidly anchored by promoting the ideals of private property. When people understand the issues, each person will find their way to contribute to saving America. They will do this for the benefit of the current and future generations.

Our common challenge is to spread the word of the American predicament. Solutions exist!

The Red Coats are coming!

So are the Brown Shirts along with the Green Coats. New systems of justice and economics are being advanced under cover of a political-environmental spirituality. Sustainability is happening:

- Will we lose by default and ignorance?
- Is the human spirit gone?
- Have we been dumbed out?

I do not think so.

Some people will suffer regrets when they realize that the threat is real and the party is over. Too many will continue to live in denial. And a few will grow more desperate in pursuit of the Sustainable Development goals.

But people who are committed to the following will discover and understand the tyranny behind Sustainable Development:

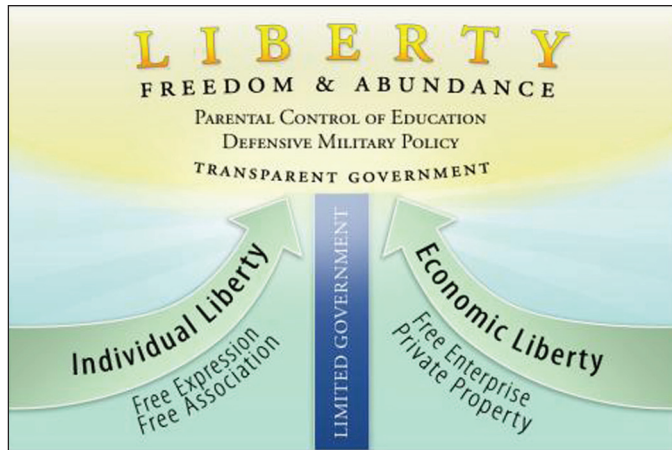

- Self evident truth,
- A political system dedicated to individual liberty,
- The 10 Commandments or similar moral paths.

We can rise to meet the greatest challenge mankind has faced. We can challenge and defeat Sustainable Development.

When we do that we will have protected and preserved mankind's greatest achievement – America's Declaration of Independence.

Long live Freedom!

What Can You Do When Human Liberty is Under Threat?

This booklet is the work of Michael Shaw, President of Freedom Advocates.org (formerly Freedom 21 Santa Cruz). Michael is a licensed attorney, a Certified Public Accountant, a real estate entrepreneur and abundance ecologist.

This booklet is based on Sustainable Development issue speeches given around the country and on various radio shows. In this booklet, the political ideology represented by Sustainable policy is written with a capital "S." You will generally see sustainable policy referenced in literature without the use of a capital letter.

Please use this booklet as a reference in your efforts to educate, recruit and support others in opposition to Sustainable Development – A major threat to the American way of life and the individual liberties that built this great nation...

What is Private Property? By Michael Shaw

Free enterprise seeks and achieves the objective of ecological health, as Liberty Garden demonstrates. There, a former weed lot now supports a wild wonderland with a plethora of productive native plants, which in turn support an array of indigenous species. Liberty Garden proves that if people are free to create voluntary associations, the laws of economics and the consequences of stewardship will cause the earth to improve.

America: Freedom to Fascism

Aaron Russo

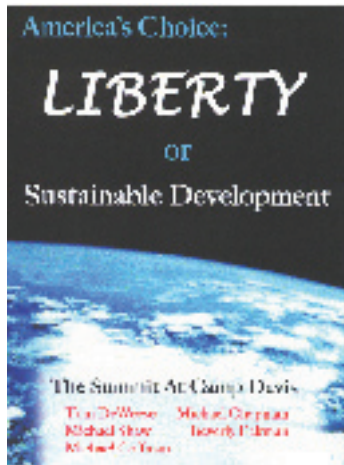

America: Freedom to Fascism is a compelling and troubling account of how the wealth of our nation was silently passed from its citizens to a handful of powerful bankers in 1913.

That's the year the Federal Reserve Act and the 16th Amendment were introduced, giving a privately held corporation the means to control our finances while ensuring its interest payments through the strong arms of the newly-formed Internal Revenue Service. Ever since then, Russo suggests, Americans have been gradually conditioned to accept fewer freedoms and a lower standard of living, all the while considering debt and servitude as distinctly American values. DISK 2 (54 min.) Global Warming? or Global Governance?

If you were to ask ten people on the street if mankind's activities are causing global warming, at least eight out of ten would say "yes." After all, Al Gore's "Inconvenient Truth" provides "evidence" that this is the case. Yet, contrary to what is heard in the media, there is overwhelming evidence that the warming we are experiencing is natural. This video exposes the reality behind the global warming theory and how this theory is designed to lead to global governance.
